OKLAHOMA TEACHERS ASK FOR AMENDMENT

The teachers of Oklahoma, thru their organization, the Oklahoma Educational Association, are plannirg a great campaign for signers to an initiative petition for a proposed amendment to the State Constitution, authorizing the levy of a sixmill state-wide tax on all taxable property of the State for the support of public schools.

The week of April 19-24 has been designated as Initiation Week during which petitions will be circulated in every part of the State.
29,300 signers will be required,

but the teachers expect to get at

Not only teachers, but various clubs and other organizations are getting behind the movement.

The Secretary has prepared a list of Fourteen Reasons why the Amendment should carry. This, and a letter of instructions, will be sent with each petition. Anyone desiring to circulate peti-tion is requested to address:

THINK STRAIGHT AND BE TRUE LEADERS, SAYS DANIEL

Secretary Daniels Expresses Hi .Faith in Colored People; President Ferguson Believes in the Square Deal for All Men.

HAMPTON, Va., Apr. 3.—Honor able Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, recently paid a "flying visit" to Hampton Institute, following the launching of the "Mary-land," which will be America's March, 20, 1920. which will be America's finest Ireadnaught. His program included the meeting of the members of the Chinese Educational Commission, who were studying Hampton Israel Davis, Institute; the reviewing of the School's battalion of cadets, including the Reserve Officers' Training Mamie Davis Corps unit; the hearing of several To the abo plantation melodies of the Old South led by Paige I. Lancaster, late of the 367th Regiment; and a brief address in Ogden Hall to the Hampton Institute workers, students, and visi-ters on "The Need and Value of Self-discipline."

"Think Straight, Be True Leaders" Secretary Daniels declared that the Hampton School is the result of General Armstrong's dream and vision; for, after the War between the States, it was Armstrong who saw what might come out of the great human tragedy. He expressed his complete confidence in the loyalty of the Colored people to American ideals and his satitfaction with the military review held in his honor. Addressing the students directly he said: "As you marched in review so well and showed the benefit and result of excellent training, I felt that it would not only bear fruit in making good soldiers, but it would have a reflex influence on making men straight.

"It was often said during the war that if a man would shoot straight must live straight. We preach ed that doctrine in the Navy and in the Army and we found, as the months went by, that the man who self-restrained, kept his passions in subject to his will, and hada clean body, made the best soldier.

"Now we have come into an era of peace. The same need is before us; that young Americans, above all else, should keep their bodies clean, upright in life, clean and straight, not only that in emergency they aust shoot straight, but in this complex life before us they can think straight, work better, command better pay, and, going out of schools like Hampton, be true leaders of a race coming out of ignorance into a better day." "Do the Right Thing."

Homer L. Ferguson, president of he Newport News Shipbuilling and Dry Dock Company at Newport News and a Hampton trustee, spoke on "The Negro in Industry." He stated that at the Newport News shipyard 5500 Colored men are now employed,

"We are proud of the fact," he soid, "that we are practically the only employers of Colored labor who work together successfully thousands of white and Colored men in the same institution without any trouble. I feel that there is a real, practical, definite, economic solution of the problem of the South. which we are please to call the Colored problem, and in my judgment it will be solved largely by Southern men, white and black, working with the common purpose of doing the right thing by each other,.'

Mr, Ferguson showed clearly that these who would teach must first learn. "Those who would instill cheerfully they submitted to un-educational facilities for Negroes; industry and thrift into the hearts wonted discipline; how faithfully and what white people of the South of a people," he said, "must first they did the hard drudgery, as well are doing through fair-dealing to themselves be industrious and thrifas the fighting; how thoroughly improve Race relations, both officers and privates accom"Courtesy on both sides will take bedience must themselves first learn plished all that could reasonably care of social relationship between and practice obedience, Leader-been expected of them—and more; all sorts and races of men," said ship does not consist in saying 'go how loyally and unselfishly they Dr. Gregg, "The true aristocracy— on' but 'come on,' Whoever has were supported by their kindred the American kind—is that not of the biggest job becomes the greatest

"DOCTOR" MUST SERVE TERM FOR MANSLAUGHTER

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Apr. 3. v - Death following treatment con-sisting of doses of a brew made from parched hogs' feet and of incantations, prayers and the laying on of hands, supports a charge of manslaughter in the second degree, ac-cording to the decision of the criminal court of appeals rendered yesterday in the case of Jim Bar. tow, convicted nearly two years ago in the district court of Pittsburg county and sentenced to two years imprisonment. The case had been tried before Judge R. W. Higgins, now a member of the state supreme court. The sentence was affirmed.

EASTER GREETING,.

(By Mrs. H. E. Vann)

The Easter bells are ringing, And our hearts are glad today, For the Christ, our blessed Savior Arose on Easter day.

Blooming in peace o'er vale and hill, The Easter bell to ring with peace On earth good will to men,

He arose and bade the flowers

Our hearts are sad for children, In the land across the sea Who do not know our dear Savior Arose on Easter day.

Let us pray and give our pennies, From the depths of our soul, At the message of the Savior, Te those little ones be told.

Editor Smitherman spent Sunday in Oklahoma City, Guthrie and at the Langston University on business returning home early Monday.

Keep informed-Read the Star.
